On the piano note chart I have included Middle C. If you can find C on the piano then you should be able to label all of the other notes. If you sit at your piano keyboard and find the two black notes that are together and move to the white note that is to the left of them you have found middle C. If you look up and down the piano keys and find the two black notes together and move one note to the left you will always be on a C.

One of the most important basics of learning the keyboard is your positioning. You want to be sitting at the centre of the keyboard, preferably on a keyboard bench, as they are designed to make you sit with the proper posture for playing. Sit on the bench with your feet placed below the keyboard and keep the soles firmly on the ground.

Other piano techniques include playing chords in two parts (e.g. the root note first and when the rest of the notes or the root followed by the whole chord on a higher octave, called stride chords). If you play solo, you are mostly playing the chords with your left hand and the melody with your right.

Another point to have in mind while reading notes is their corresponding position on the piano keyboard. Just like on a music sheet, notes are next to one another on the keyboard. Furthermore, this means that two line notes (separated by one space) are also separated by a note on the keyboard. The same goes other way around. Two space notes (separated by one line) are separated by one note on the keyboard.
